SWING EASY 88
Frank Sinatra (1-10")
Capitol (33) H528
Frank Sinatra could have another winner with this sparkling new set. Unlike his last album, which contained smooth, pretty love songs, this new album features a group of up-tempo standards played in breezy fashion by the Nelson Riddle crew. The "comeback kid" sings them with all the personality and feeling he can project, and that's saying a lot. He socks them over as tho he means every word, and sells them with all the old-time Sinatra charm. He's sure to re-charm his many old fans, and gain a lot of new ones with this release. "Just One of Those Things," "Sunday," "Wrap Your Troubles in Dreams," and "All of Me," and the others are handed the fine Sinatra treatment here. Dealers should make out well with this set from now thru the fall.

In May, 1955, this album was combined with the ten-inch album, Songs for Young Lovers, to form the twelve-inch record with catalog number W-587. That album has its own listing.

In summer, 1962, after Frank Sinatra left Capitol Records for Reprise, Capitol reissued his album catalog. They reissued Swing Easy with four additional tracks as album W-1429.
